Ohio Educators Offer Plan To End Deficit

PROPOSAL ASKS NEW TAX TO PAY SCHOOLS' DEBTS

Association Wants State To Set Up Borrowing Office To Sell Bonds

THREE PROVISIONS CITED

Constitutional Question May Imperil Suggestion Made To Solve Problem

COLUMBUS, Nov. 14—(UP)—The Ohio Education Association recommended today three proposals from which to choose for paying off the $17,500,000 school foundation deficit. All three recommendations carried with them suggestion for new taxes.

The proposals were:
1. Establishment of a state borrowing authority empowered to sell bonds sufficient to retire all outstanding deficit certificates on which local school boards borrow from local banks, together with provision for retirement of the bonds and interest by a "special earmarked tax or by an appropriation."
2. Continuation of present borrowing by school districts on short term notes coupled with a revenue program for 1939 and thereafter to raise money in excess of the annual requirements of the school foundation, the excess to be allocated periodically for payment of the interest on the notes and reduction of the principal.
3. Continuation of the present borrowing and a special tax the revenue therefrom to be paid on interest and toward principal reduction.

First Idea Favored

The O. E. A. said the first proposal would be the most efficient and the most convenient and economical to administer. It noted, however, that it might be held illegal on the grounds that the state constitution prohibits the state's incurring of a debt greater than $750,000.

"It is rather obvious that administrative difficulties are replete in any method one can suggest for funding and amortizing the state school deficit," the association's announcement said. "It is a problem on which careful planning should precede legislative action."

Of its two latter proposals it held that the third was preferable if state assumption of the entire deficit was held illegal. It said that through a special tax, the revenue to go on the interest and principal of the notes, the funded deficit could be more easily segregated from fiscal operations in future financing of the foundation law. Either of the latter two recommendations would entail expensive administration procedure, it said.

Merchants' Big Buck Event Opens Tuesday, Goes On Until Dec. 23

Circleville merchants start passing the buck, Tuesday, in a campaign that continues until Dec. 23, and from all indications there will be plenty of it. BUT, the buck passing will be of very definite benefit to all persons living in Circleville's vast trading area. This buck passing is something different. It promises to create a lot of interest, and it means profit for all who buy their Christmas merchandise in Circleville's stores.

Bucks, really valuable Bucks, will be given to store patrons for purchases or payment of back bills amounting to 50 cents or more. The Bucks will be in denominations of Half Buck, One Buck and Five Bucks.

10 PERSONS DIE IN OHIO TRAFFIC

Automobile Accidents Take Heavy Toll; Wagon Loaded With Corn Kills Man

BY UNITED PRESS

At least 10 persons were killed in motor accidents in Ohio during the week-end.
Harley H. Aber, 42, Akron businessman, was drowned when his automobile plunged 30 feet from a bridge into the Cuyahoga river. He lost control of his car on the wet approach to the Lower George bridge between Akron and Cuyahoga Falls and it went through a guard rail. Aber was pinned beneath the steering wheel.

Mrs. Marie Murrette, 50, Toledo, was killed when a parked automobile was struck by a truck on the Dixie highway, seven miles south of Bowling Green. Joseph Koenig, 45, Louisville, Ky., the truck driver, was released after telling authorities he did not see the car in the rain. Six persons were slightly injured in the collision.

George F. Mahr, 72, a farmer, died in a Fremont hospital after being struck by an automobile driven by Policeman Fred Strohl, 51.
Everett Grummel, 60, of Sycamore, was killed and his wife and mother hurt seriously when he drove into the side of a Pennsylvania car.

MAN CONFESSES THAT HE SLEW, BURNED WIFE, 20

PUXICO, Mo., Nov. 14—(UP)—Authorities said today that Ernest Gyger, 25, had signed a confession admitting that he choked his wife to death last July 2 near Pueblo, Colo., put her body in a clothes closet and set fire to the house.

Gyger told sheriff John Evans that after he put his 20 year old wife's body in the closet and lighted the fire he remembered that their nine-month old daughter was asleep in another room. He dashed in and rescued the child while the house was burning.
Gyger at first had told officers that his wife was confused and ran into the closet when fire awakened her. He and the child came here to live with his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Fortner, who for four months had believed that their daughter was burned to death accidentally.

MOTORIST FINED, ORDERED TO PAY DAMAGE TO AUTO

Fine of $5 and costs, the fine suspended, was assessed Charles Kuhn, Maplewood avenue, in B. T. Hedges' justice of peace court Saturday for failure to stop his car before entering an intersection.
Mr. Hedges said the fine was suspended on condition Mr. Kuhn pay the damage done to the car driven by Charles Scott, 217 E. Union street, in a collision at the intersection of Route 277 and Judas road about three miles north of Clarksburg. The collision occurred last Wednesday.

NEW DIRECTOR TAKES CHARGE OF OHIO ROADS

Ivan A. Ault, Ashland, Gains Job Left By Jaster; Program To Continue

Squabble Over Governor's Stand In Recent State Election Charged

COLUMBUS, Nov. 14—(UP)—Ivan A. Ault, Ashland, appointed state highway director on resignation of Director John J. Jaster, Jr., and 10 key assistants because of reported political differences with Gov. Martin L. Davey, assumed his new responsibilities today with assurances that the state road building program would continue unabated.

It was Ault's second major promotion within two weeks as he recently was made chief of the maintenance bureau when B. H. Frisch, of Newark, quit because of another dispute with the governor.

Although Jaster and the governor exchanged pleasant notes on submission of the former's resignation, it was generally understood that Jaster resigned out of protest against an order for dismissal of nine division engineers. These men who resigned simultaneously were reported to have signed affidavits supporting the campaign charge of Charles Sawyer, defeated Democratic candidate for governor, that Davey and Governor-elect John W. Bricker had made a patronage "deal."

Anderson Out, Too

Besides Jaster and Assistant Director G. Murray Anderson the following division engineers severed their connection with the Davey administration: C. A. Smith, Lima, division 1; F. W. Stophrer, Toledo, division 2; P. K. Troutman, Newark, division 5; Frank W. Turner, Delaware, division 6.

DR. ROY WERNER, COUNTY NATIVE, DIES IN HOSPITAL

Dr. Roy G. Werner, 55, prominent Akron, O., physician and a former resident of Williamsport, died Saturday in a Clifton Springs, N. Y., hospital where he had been undergoing treatment.

Dr. Werner left Williamsport about 30 years ago. Mrs. L. O. Morgan, an aunt, resides in the village.

The funeral will be held Tuesday at 1:30 p. m. in Akron, the Masonic service to be conducted. Additional rites will be held Wednesday at 1 p. m. in Springlawn cemetery, Williamsport.

He was a member of Heber lodge of Masons in Williamsport. Dr. Werner was born June 26, 1883 in Williamsport, a son of Samuel and Cordelia Morgan Werner. His father operated a grocery store at Grange Hall, Monroe township, many years ago. Surviving are his widow, Clara Hoon Werner; his mother, a resident of Columbus, and a brother, Ralph, Columbus.

Dr. Werner lived at 110 Corson avenue, Akron, and had gone to New York hospital recently for treatment.

C. E. Hill is in charge of funeral arrangements.

10,000 GO BACK TO JOBS AFTER STRIKE IS ENDED

DETROIT, Nov. 14 — (UP) — Workers at the Budd Wheel company and the Packard motor company were ordered to return to their jobs today following settlement of a strike at the Budd plant which threw approximately 10,000 men out of work and tied up Packard production.

Budd Personnel Director Marvin A. Heidt said the United Automobile Workers union had accepted terms of an agreement after hours of negotiations between company officials and union officials. Terms of the settlement were not revealed.

Meanwhile, a union negotiating committee planned to meet with officials of the Hudson Motor company today where the union seeks a new wage schedule. The U. A. W. Hudson local has been authorized to call a strike at the plant on the charge the company has not negotiated in good faith.

A strike vote is scheduled to be taken by members of the Hudson local at a meeting tomorrow night.

The strike at the Budd plant was called Thursday when switches in several departments were thrown and workers urged to walk out. Two shop stewards were fired after the strike was called, allegedly for circulating petitions among employees.

Garden Death Mystery Horrifies Iowa Village

LE MARS, Ia., Nov. 14—(UP)—This little community was horrified today as police began a search for additional bodies in a rock garden owned by Mrs. Sumner Knox, 50, once prominent as a socialite and dry crusader. They already had found the body of her mother, Mrs. L. A. Trown, 80, in a shallow grave.

Mrs. Knox was held in protective custody at Plymouth county hospital, pending completion of the search and investigation of stories told Sheriff Frank Scholer by her neighbors. Her mental condition is such, Scholer said, that she cannot be questioned detailedly at present.

He said she had admitted cashing several $90 monthly checks her mother had received from the government as a widow of a Civil War veteran. She also admitted that she had brought another woman into her home to impersonate her mother to quiet the suspicions of neighbors.

BRITISH STRIVING FOR PLANE SPEEDY ENOUGH TO SCORE NEW RECORD

LONDON, Nov. 14. — (UP) — Engineers of the Heston Aircraft company were understood today to be perfecting a new single-engined monoplane capable of flying from 450 to 590 miles an hour to attempt a new world's speed record.
The present speed record of 440.67 miles an hour was made by an Italian seaplane. British bombing planes recently captured the world's long distance record.

NO SUCCESSOR CHOSEN FOR HOSPITAL'S CHIEF

No successor has been named yet to the superintendency of Berger hospital to succeed Miss Ethel Kirchofer, resigned.

Miss Kirchofer's resignation becomes effective Tuesday. She will return to her home in Wooster to care for her ailing mother.

Applications for the position are being received by Safety Director Karl Herrmann and members of the advisory committee of the Medical society, including Drs. H. D. Jackson, D. V. Courtwright, G. D. Sheets and C. G. Stewart.

It is understood that the list of applicants has been narrowed down but no definite decision has been reached.

COOL WEATHER FOLLOWS RAIN AND HIGH WIND

Clear, cool weather returned to Pickaway county Monday after showers and high winds Sunday caused the temperature to slump to 30 degrees. Warmer weather was predicted for Tuesday.

The highest temperature Sunday was 66 degrees. During the night it dropped to 30. Rainfall in the 24 hours preceding 8 a. m. Monday amounted to .31 of an inch.

Citizens Telephone Co. officials reported that a few poles were snapped by the high winds at various places in the county, but there was no serious damage. Fodder was blown down in some districts.

BUCYRUS, Nov. 14—(UP)—A freak wind-storm caused heavy property damage on Bucyrus' north side Sunday.

Half of the roofing of the Bucyrus Livestock Commission company's large barns was blown off. The barns were built two years ago.

The wreckage fell on several cattle, breaking their backs and making it necessary to kill them.

A roof on a barn owned by Ralph Carpenter was torn off. Pole and wires along the Pennsylvania railroad tracks were blown down. One Bucyrus house was moved six feet off its foundation. The Ohio Power Co. substation near New Washington, O., was damaged.

URBANA, O., Nov. 14—(UP)—Damage to the United Paperboard Co. plant here from a windstorm was estimated today at $10,000. A brick building housing the plants boilers was blown down.

Small buildings were unroofed, fences torn down and trees uprooted throughout Champaign county by the storm Sunday. Utility crews worked several hours to restore electric and telephone service.

JEWS OFFERING STOCKS TO PAY BIG MASS FINE

Fritz Warburg, Famed As Banker, Reported Held In Hamburg Jail

NEWSPAPERS DESTROYED

German Citizens Unaware Of Growing Protest From Abroad

BERLIN, Nov. 14—(UP)—The stock market slumped sharply today as leaders of Germany's 700,000 Jews frantically sought to satisfy increasing Nazi demands designed to eliminate their participation in German life.

Many stocks dropped three, four or more points, largely because of sales by panic-stricken Jewish leaders who sought funds to repair damages—as ordered by the government—done in anti-Semitic rioting and to pay the $400,000,000 mass fine ordered by the Nazis as a penalty for the murder of a German diplomat in Paris.

It was reported from Hamburg that a prominent Jewish banker, Fritz Warburg, had been arrested.

Aryans Take Businesses

Aryans added to the financial slump by seeking quick funds to take over businesses of prominent Jews who organized to finance the repairs and the fine.

There were almost no buying orders, indicating that business leaders generally looked unfavorably on the possible economic consequences of the government's sweeping new anti-Jewish laws and further restrictions which have been promised.

Nazis made a quick effort to limit the slump when the Reich private bankers organization instructed members not accept orders from Jews for sale of securities and not to lower their price limits for orders from Jews.

Meanwhile the German people had practically no conception of indignation abroad. Foreign newspapers with anti-German criticism were confiscated. German newspapers printed no reaction from abroad.

Foreign financial circles believed that the government would use the annual October census in which Germans stated the amount of their property as the basis for collecting the $400,000,000 mass fine. It was suggested that the levy probably would not be carried.

FATHER CHARGED WITH ABDUCTION OF DAUGHTER, 17

TEANECK, N. J., Nov. 14—(UP)—Fred H. Roff, 51 year old unemployed dishwasher of Morristown, N. J., was charged here today with kidnapping his 17 year old daughter, Gloria, whose parents by adoption had received a telephoned demand for $500 ransom before she was released.

Roff, who had been separated from his daughter since she was four years old, denied the charge, but Gloria told police his voice and profile resembled those of the driver of the automobile in which she was held prisoner for two hours last Wednesday evening.

The girl, a junior at Teaneck high school, lives with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. George W. O'Connor, who adopted her after her mother's death several years ago. As she was leaving school Wednesday, a woman seized her and forced her into the rear seat of an automobile, driven by a man she did not recognize.

They drove around, the girl told police, for two hours during which the woman held her so that she was unable to see more than the profile of the driver, and the back of his head. She was finally released, Miss Roff said, in Ridgefield Park, near Teaneck. Meanwhile, O'Connor had received a telephone call from a woman who demanded $500 for the girl's release. The woman hung up, O'Connor said, without giving instructions for payment of the money.

FATHER CHARGED WITH ABDUCTION OF DAUGHTER, 17

TEANECK, N. J., Nov. 14—(UP)—Fred H. Roff, 51 year old unemployed dishwasher of Morris-town, N. J., was charged here today with kidnapping his 17 year old daughter, Gloria, whose parents by adoption had received a telephone demand for $500 ransom before she was released.

Roff, who had been separated from his daughter since she was four years old, denied the charge, but Gloria told police his voice and profile resembled those of the driver of the automobile in which she was held prisoner for two hours last Wednesday evening.

The girl, a junior at Teaneck high school, lives with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. George W. O'Connor, who adopted her after her mother's death several years ago. As she was leaving school Wednesday, a woman seized her and forced her into the rear seat of an automobile, driven by a man she did not recognize.

They drove around the girl told police, for two hours during which the woman held her so that she was unable to see more than the profile of the driver, and the back of his head. She was finally released, Miss Roff said, in Ridgefield Park, near Teaneck. Meanwhile, O'Connor had received a telephone call from a woman who demanded $500 for the girl's release. The woman hung up, O'Connor said, without giving instructions for payment of the money.

STORY TOLD TO SHERIFF

Ralston Purina Company Adding Machine Taken, Too, He Admits

Leslie Dunn, 23, of Madison Mills, held in Columbus for the theft of 10 automobiles, confessed Saturday that he burglarized the Bennett filling station at Cozy Corners along Route 22 on two occasions last July and stole an adding machine from the Ralston Purina elevator at New Holland. Sheriff Charles Radcliff said that Dunn told him the stolen articles were sold in Portsmouth. Radcliff, Fissell and Bertus Bennett, operator of the filling station, went to Portsmouth Monday in an effort to trace the merchandise.

The filling station was entered first on July 7. The second burglary of the filling station and the theft at the elevator took place on July 16, the sheriff's department said.

Dunn is involved also in a series of farm home robberies in Fayette county. Everett Platt, 23, of Washington C. H., has been arrested as a partner in crime with Dunn. Both men have admitted the robbery of the John Campsey store at Danville, lower Madison county, in November last year. Platt has been bound to the grand jury under $2,500 bond at London.

TURNER'S WORK FOR MAJOR ROAD JOB RECALLED

Resignation of Frank W. Turner, of Washington C. H., as resident deputy director of highways in Division 6, including Pickaway county, recalls to Circleville and Pickaway county residents the prominent part Mr. Turner has played in a major highway improvement for Circleville, the Route 22 program.

For many months Mr. Turner gave his fullest cooperation in the county's campaign to have Route 22, just west of the river, improved and elevated above the flood stages of the Scioto. At present work is under way on the improvement.

Mr. Turner was one of nine division highway engineers who submitted resignations to John J. Jaster, director of highways, last Saturday. The nine engineers had given Charles Sawyer affidavits concerning a "deal" between Governor Davey and John Bricker, governor-elect.

GALLOWAY GIRL DIES OF BURNS IN HOUSE FIRE

COLUMBUS, Nov. 14—(UP)—Jacqueline Kidd, 10, died in a hospital here today of burns received when the family's home was destroyed by fire at Galloway, O. Her clothing caught fire. Other members of the family were unhurt.

George E. Anderson, 48, was suffocated Sunday when his pipe started a fire in his home here. He was believed to have fallen asleep while smoking. The embers set fire to his chair.

Changing the fireplace mantel arrangements is fun and it will perk up an entire room. Put away the objects you've had there all summer and experiment with low pewter or brass bowls filled with bitter-sweet or artificial flowers. Or place a pottery jar of trailing ivy at either end of the mantel, and your clock or a group of interesting Chinese figures in the center.

The "ham-and-eggs" plan, providing $30 a week in state scrip for persons over 50 years of age, was buried by voters, however.

Ex-Stockbroker, Legally Dead Seven Years, Found

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 14—(UP)—A former wealthy stockbroker who left two suicide notes 14 years ago and was declared legally dead reappeared today.

He had remarried and had two sons. His former wife, who believed him dead and collected his insurance, also remarried.

The man was Davis R. MacDonald, former wealthy Pittsburgh broker and wartime aviator. He was arrested as John Edgar Davis after a check he wrote was not honored by the bank. Under California law, he automatically was charged with forgery. A routine check of his fingerprints by the Federal Bureau of Investigation revealed his identity.

MacDonald, smoking a cigaret, admitted that he lost his nerve when he attempted suicide after reverses took his wealth.

"I was in trouble when I disappeared," he said to John Hanson of the Los Angeles F.B.I. office. "I fully intended to commit suicide and I should have gone ahead with it. But I was a coward. My family and parents fully believed I had ended my life."

Intended To Drown
"On the night of Feb. 13, 1924 I walked to the banks of the Allegheny river with the intention of killing myself. I figured I was only a liability to my wife and daughter and the best way out was to kill myself."

"But when I got to the river, I suddenly realized I couldn't drown myself. I was a semi-professional swimmer and I knew I was too good a swimmer to drown. I got cold feet and backed out."

MacDonald said he carried $10,000 worth of war risk insurance and $30,000 in other policies. He decided to disappear.

He bought a railway ticket to New Orleans and for three years worked for an office supply company. Then he came to California and obtained work as a wholesale drug salesman. He remarried and lived with his family at Palmdale.

His insurance meanwhile was paid to Mrs. MacDonald. After seven years she obtained a jury verdict declaring her husband dead. Later she became Mrs. Clara M. Brown.

F.B.I. Not Interested
F.B.I. agents said they had no interest in MacDonald's case as he had violated no federal law. He applied for a probation hearing and it was set for Nov. 21. MacDonald said he expected to earn enough to cover the check that revealed him. He wished that his former family had never heard from him again.

Thought He Was in Grip of Neuritis and Rheumatism

Hands, feet, elbows and back ached and pained him day and night. Says Vendol acted as a mild diuretic to his kidneys, gave wonderful relief.

Vendol will not "cure" rheumatism, nor will it "cure" neuritis, but if the pains that you are suffering from and which you believe to be rheumatism or neuritis are caused by accumulations in the body due to poor elimination or constipation, you can be sure Vendol will bring the greatest relief you ever expected, which has been the experience of many people right here in this city and nearby vicinity. One of the many reliable citizens who has been greatly helped by Vendol, is Mr. A. J. Edmondson, who says:

"For years I had suffered from sluggish kidneys and constipation. Only strong laxatives would keep me moving. My hands and limbs were full of pains and sometimes I couldn't close my fist and this interfered with my work. Even the bed covers made my pains worse. My nerves were quivery and my sleep was broken. I started on the Vendol treatment which seemed to be just what I needed because it quickly relieved my constipation and acted as a mild diuretic to my kidneys. My food quit disagreeing with my stomach and best of all, these pains that I thought to be rheumatism were completely relieved. I enjoy sound sleep now, nerves are steady, digestion is good and I feel better in every way and thank Vendol for this grand change in my feelings. I advise everyone who suffers like I used to, to get Vendol at once."

Peruvian's Race Against Death Nears Its End

CHICAGO, Nov. 14—(UP)—Manuel Mujica, 58, millionaire Peruvian mine owner, arrived aboard an airplane at municipal airport at 7:45 a. m. today, completing the third leg of a race against death from Lima to Rochester, Minn., where he will undergo an emergency operation which may save his life.

Immediately after arrival, relatives accompanying him removed him from the ship and transferred him to another plane in which they will fly to Rochester. They left Miami, Fla., last night. The ship was delayed an hour by strong headwinds.

Mujica is critically ill from an obstruction of the intestinal tract. His private physician, Dr. Eugene McCormick, formerly of Lynchburg, Va., said the operation is the only means to save his life. Immediately after his arrival at Rochester, Mujica will be taken to the Mayo clinic. Officials at the clinic declined to say what plans had been made for his confinement.

Two Sons Along

Mujica was accompanied by his wife and two sons, Miguel and Manuel, and McCormick. They left Tambo airport at Lima in a chartered airplane early Saturday and flew to Cristobal, Canal Zone, in 11 hours, the fastest time ever made by transport plane for the flight.

Mujica is a member of one of Lima's oldest and most aristocratic families and once was prominent in politics. He is the first South American native to charter airplanes in relay for an urgent trip to the United States. When he arrives at Rochester he will have spent more than 35 hours elapsed time in the air.

Pan American Grace line officials who mapped the trip said every hour of the flight, for transportation alone, would cost $200, a total of approximately $7,000.

The organization, which came into being after the Ohio senate graft investigation, was formerly known as the "Ohio Citizens Tax Vigilance Committee."

S. P. Bush, retired Columbus industrialist and chairman of the league, announced that Baxter was appointed executive director in order to push through a state-wide expansion program.

Local chapters are being organized in each of Ohio's 88 counties, and the initial membership goal has been set at 100,000 active members, Bush said.

The governing body of the organization will consist of the various county chairmen, and this group will elect an executive committee, it was announced. Mem-

"Davenport Blues," another old-time swing tune by the famous trumpeter, Bix Beiderbecke, will be arranged with a modern score and presented to swing fans in a golden trombone on Tommy Dorsey's program next Wednesday night.

Two weeks ago Tommy presented another old tune of the same vintage in "Washboard Blues"—a melody that was introduced to swing musicians at an old Gennett recording session about fifteen years ago by Hoagy Carmichael of "Stardust" fame. At the same session, which was under the direction of Bix Beiderbecke, Bix played for the boys present another time in the same blues idiom, "Davenport Blues."

In the fiscal year ended June 30, 1937, the 20 airline operators in the United States carried 1,063,480 passengers. In 1936, 1,020,931 persons were carried and in 1935, 746,936.

PRESIDENT PUTS ALF LONDON IN U. S. DELEGATION

Former foe to attend Peru Conference December 9

LABOR MEMBERS NAMED

Effort to unite nation on foreign policy discussed

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14—(UP)—President Roosevelt's appointment of Alfred M. Landon, his Republican opponent in the 1936 election, to the American delegation of the eighth international conference of American states was interpreted today as a move to unite the nation on the administration's foreign policy.

The conference, to be held at Lima, Peru, Dec. 9, is designed to strengthen cooperative action among the republics of North and South America and to further peace among the nations of the Western hemisphere.

Special significance was seen in the placing of Landon second on the list of 12 delegates—immediately beneath Secretary of State Hull. Just prior to the recent national elections, it was recalled, Mr. Roosevelt appealed for a common national front in the face of a troubled world.

In addition, the delegation will represent various strata of national life, including the two factions of organized labor.

Labor Represented

Miss Kathryn Lewis, daughter of Chairman John L. Lewis of the Committee for Industrial Organization and executive assistant to her father as president of the United Mine Workers union, will be a delegate. The American Federation of Labor will be represented by Dan W. Tracy, president of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

Other delegates are: Adolf A. Berle, Jr., assistant secretary of state; Laurence A. Steinhardt, ambassador to Peru; R. Henry Norweb, minister to the Dominican Republic; Emilio Del Toro Cuevas, chief justice of the supreme court of Puerto Rico; Green H. Hackworth, legal adviser of the state department; the Rev. John J. O'Hara, president of Notre Dame university; Charles G. Fenwick, professor of international law, Bryn Mawr college; Mrs. Elise F. Muser, who was a member of the United States delegation to the 1936 inter-American peace conference at Buenos Aires.

Presidential appointment of a defeated opponent to a diplomatic mission was believed to be unprecedented.

In some diplomatic circles Landon's appointment was seen as a reward for his speech during the crisis over the Japanese bombing and sinking of the U. S. gunboat Panay a year ago. At that time Landon, as titular head of the Republican party, called for united support of the administration's policy. He declared that politics should stop at our borders.

Questions Settled

Appointment of the delegation followed several week-end developments affecting the administration's foreign policy, especially its relation to Latin American countries. They included settlement by the state department of the Mexican agrarian land dispute, assurances to Argentina that its wheat markets would not be invaded by this country and entertainment of Col. Fulgencio Batista, chief of the Cuban army and that island republic's "strong man."

It might be more accurate to call it Rearmistice Day.

AT THE CLIFTONA

The endeavors of a psychiatrist to play Cupid and marry off his best friend to a noted actress is the theme of "Carefree," RKO Radio's latest musical romance now showing at the Cliftona Theatre with Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers in the stellar roles.

However, the scheme runs into unforeseen difficulties when the patient falls in love with the doctor instead of with the man she's supposed to marry. Hilarious complications involving hypnotism, a sheet-shooting match, legal injunctions, breaking into a church and the wrecking of a nation-wide radio program, are among the comedy highlights of the Astaire-Rogers vehicle.

Woven through the story are a group of tuneful melodies by Irving Berlin, and four notable dance routines—Astaire's solo Golf Dance, a fantastic Dream Dance, the romantic "Change Partners" number, and the "Yam," the new popular ballroom step that is expected to replace most of the current dances.

Ralph Bellamy heads the brilliant supporting cast, which includes the Broadway favorite, Lucella Gear; Clarence Kolb, Franklin Pangborn and the new "find," Jack Carson. Mark Sandrich directed the Pandro S. Berman production.

AT THE GRAND

Produced with the magnitude possible only on the screen, one of the most memorable pictures ever to come out of Hollywood, "Suez," opened yesterday at the Grand Theatre.

"Suez" is truly a great picture. In spectacle, emotional experience and sheer entertainment it is unsurpassed. It is said that into its production Darryl F. Zanuck has poured all his skill and 20th Century-Fox's resources—and "Suez" looks it.

The story is of heroic proportions. It tells of the amazing Ferdinand de Lesseps, who dreamed of creating the short route to the East, sought vainly by Columbus and Magellan, by tearing continents apart and joining the Mediterranean with the Red Sea. The great canal he built has become the jugular vein of the world.

Out of the choking sand, from the clutch of the raiding Bedouin, in the face of terrifying Sahara simoon—with blood, tears and passion—de Lesseps built his canal, driven by the love of two women to realize the dream men scoffed at.

Tyrone Power gives thrilling realism to the central character, with Loretta Young and Annabella stirring appealing in the feminine leads. Allan Dwan di-

County Social Efforts Outlined In Articles

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article is the first of a series of six prepared by Miss Virginia Smith, Williamsport, county welfare visitor, to give a better understanding of Pickaway county's public assistance work. In the articles the aims, accomplishments and progress of the program of the county Bureau of Public Assistance will be outlined.

During the last two and a half years, Ohio's public assistance program designed under the Social Security Act to assist dependent and crippled children and the needy blind has done much to alleviate human suffering.

In Pickaway county the work to help these groups under the Social Security Act started in August 1936 and since that time definite steps have been taken to lay a strong foundation in building a program that would provide care and humane consideration to the underprivileged who turn to the program for aid.

At present the Pickaway county public assistance program is caring for 189 dependent children representing 68 families in the county. In addition, it is providing care for 43 indigent blind persons and 18 crippled children.

The dependent children being aided are youngsters, most of them under 16 years of age, who lost the support of their family wage earners through such causes as death, physical or mental incapacity, or continued absence from the home.

They are children who because of this program's presence have been kept together in their own homes or in homes of blood relatives and are being given the opportunity to be reared under the influence of their own people instead of being cast aside or sent to institutions, a more costly procedure in the long run than the current program.

Throughout the state, juvenile judges administer the program aiding dependent children. Here in Pickaway county, Judge C. C. Young is in charge of the work and is assisted by a welfare worker. In the work to help the needy blind, under the Ohio setup, the county commissioners are the administrators of this program.

Among the duties of the welfare workers engaged in the public assistance program, is the task of planning with mothers and blind recipients in order that they might receive the maximum good out of the grants they get. In addition, the welfare workers attempt to make the program in the county conform to the needs of those who are receiving assistance.

Under the Social Security Act the programs for dependent children and the blind are financed by the county, state, and federal governments. In the children's work, the federal government provides one dollar for every two dollars the county and state expend in the care of children under 16 years of age. In the blind program the federal government matches whatever funds are spent by the county plus the state.

The public assistance program in Pickaway county is not merely a money-distributing proposition. Attempts are constantly made to help persons and families receiving aid to rehabilitate themselves in order that they might become, in part, self-supporting.

From the time a family's application for aid is approved, the county public assistance bureau immediately starts planning for the family's welfare and making plans to help the family in movements which will ultimately result in making it partially, if not entirely, self-supporting.

The Pickaway county work for the blind aims to prevent blindness, restore vision, and rehabilitate the blind. If a person upon examination by a physician is found to be blind but treatment or an operation might possibly restore vision, or prevent total blindness, provisions are made through the program for this treatment and care. In that manner many blind persons will have a chance to have their vision restored and thereby can take their places in society as useful citizens of the community instead of continuing dependent upon public support in later life.

Hollywood has a sort of an air of freedom and recklessness about it that I don't believe any other city in the world has. People that move in here from the Middle West don't understand it at first, but finally you'll see 'em right in the swing with everybody else.

I was talkin' to a fella the other day and he said "Back home I wouldn't have thought of givin' my eighteen-year-old daughter a key to the front door, but here, we've only been here in Hollywood six months and this mornin' I gave her a key of her own."

I says "Well, it took you a long time to trust your daughter!" and he says "Well, it ain't that so much—I jest got tired of havin' her knock over milk bottles crawlin' through the pantry window!"

The ladies of the local P.-T. A. are working very hard planning for a dinner for the Nameless Schoolmasters' Club to be held at the school building Tuesday, November 15. The dinner will be served at 6 o'clock for many men who are connected with the teaching in high schools of Central Ohio.

This Monday evening (tonight) a free picture show is held at the school auditorium, giving the new school picture machine its first showing to the public. Prof. E. F. Martin, who is thoroughly acquainted with its working will be in charge as operator. And tomorrow, besides the many teachers of central Ohio being here, the county school building library truck will be distributing many books. And the hunters will be afield after the bunnies and pheasants.

While operating an emery wheel at his garage on the Harrison-Madison township line a few days ago, David Jinks received an injury from dust penetrating an eye. The wound has been quite painful but some improvement is noticed and it is now thought he will not be blinded from the injury.

And telling of Old Timers, we were reminded by meeting Wardy Powell on the street recently, of the days that he and a dozen or so of others put on, at then Steward's Hall, some splendid home talent shows, and played usually two nights to full houses. We recall especially the one show, Hickory Farm, when as the curtain lifted, there sat this same Wardy Powell on a milk stool, bucket and all, milking a real live cow. And this is no "True Not" story. And Circleville police and sheriff's department patrolled highways in the vicinity of Stoutsville Sunday in search of two of a group of seven Negroes who escaped Saturday night from the Industrial School for Boys at Lancaster.

Officers learned later the two had been caught near Lancaster. Five were caught Saturday night at Lancaster.

Four of the escaped youths criminally attacked a Lancaster girl and struck her male companion with a brick.

DOCTOR, THREE OTHERS FACING ATTACK TRIAL

OLYMPIA, Wash., Nov. 14—(UP)—Dr. Kent W. Berry, middle-aged society physician, and three other men were to face trial today on charges that they attempted to emasculate Irving Baker, 37.

Baker, former coast guard officer and automobile dealer, was accused by Berry of an alleged seduction of his young wife, Mrs. Betty Berry after a party last Summer.

William McAloon, former Montesano town marshal, James Reddick, Olympia taxi cab driver, and Robert H. Smith, Montesano dairyman, were charged with Berry in the kidnapping and assault on Baker Aug. 19. They were alleged to have taken Baker from his home to a gravel pit where he was beaten and tortured with a pair of pliers. Each of the four defend-

PRESIDENT PUTS ALF LONDON IN U. S. DELEGATION

Former foe to attend Peru Conference December 9

LABOR MEMBERS NAMED

Effort to unite nation on foreign policy discussed

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—(UP)—President Roosevelt's appointment of Alfred M. Landon, his Republican opponent in the 1936 election, to the American delegation of the eighth international conference of American states was interpreted today as a move to unite the nation on the administration's foreign policy.

The conference, to be held at Lima, Peru, Dec. 9, is designed to strengthen cooperative action among the republics of North and South America and to further peace among the nations of the Western Hemisphere.

Special significance was seen in the placing of Landon second on the list of 12 delegates—immediately beneath Secretary of State Hull. Just prior to the recent national elections, it was recalled, Mr. Roosevelt appealed for a common national front in the face of a troubled world.

In addition, the delegation will represent various strata of national life, including the two factions of organized labor.

Labor Represented

Miss Kathryn Lewis, daughter of Chairman John L. Lewis of the Committee for Industrial Organization and executive assistant to her father as president of the United Mine Workers union, will be a delegate. The American Federation of Labor will be represented by Dan W. Tracy, president of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

Other delegates are: Adolf A. Berle, Jr., assistant secretary of state; Laurence A. Steinhardt, ambassador to Peru; R. Henry Norweb, minister to the Dominican Republic; Emilio Del Toro Cuevas, chief justice of the supreme court of Puerto Rico; Green H. Hackworth, legal adviser of the state department; the Rev. John J. O'Hara, president of Notre Dame university; Charles G. Fenwick, professor of international law, Bryn Mawr college; Mrs. Elise F. Muser, who was a member of the United States delegation to the 1936 inter-American peace conference at Buenos Aires.

Presidential appointment of a defeated opponent to a diplomatic mission was believed to be unprecedented.

In some diplomatic circles Landon's appointment was seen as a reward for his speech during the crisis over the Japanese bombing and sinking of the U. S. gunboat Panay a year ago. At that time Landon, as titular head of the Republican party, called for united support of the administration's policy. He declared that politics should stop at our borders.

Questions Settled

Appointment of the delegation followed several week-end developments affecting the administration's foreign policy, especially its relation to Latin American countries. They included settlement by the state department of the Mexican agrarian land dispute, assurances to Argentina that its wheat markets would not be invaded by this country and entertainment of Col. Fulgencio Batista, chief of the Cuban army and that island republic's "strong man."

"Hard To Get," the Warner Bros. comedy which opened yesterday at the Circle Theatre, is certainly not hard to take.

With Dick Powell and Olivia de Havilland — teamed for the first time — supplying a somewhat romantic interest and more than a fair share of the comedy, outdoing each other in the pursuit of laughs, the new Circle picture proved to be one of the funniest in many a month.

TURKEY

WHEN the time comes for Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners, the turkey occupies a large place in American thought. The eagle may be our national bird, but most people are thinking of the barnyard gobbler.

His rich meat turns a dinner into a feast. It is with difficulty that the people restrain themselves from consuming too much of this luscious delicacy. This delectable food seems appropriate to two holidays which express the joy of family and home life.

Turkey growing has become a great industry. One county in Colorado has 120,000 of these birds. Great flocks are seen in other sections and states. Turkeys are subject to various diseases. Clean ground free from infection gives them their chance to live, and their growers a chance to prosper.

Turkeys don't cost as much as they used to, and people have been quick to discover this fact, and use these noble birds in greatly increased numbers.

THINK OF CHRISTMAS

IT IS high time for people to be thinking of their Christmas purchases. If they would buy all their gifts in November they would save expense, get the pick of the goods, and avoid the annoyance that comes from trying to shop when so many other people are doing the same thing.

You can't expect a salesman to give you much attention if you try to buy goods while a dozen other people are also trying to get his attention. The modern habit of everybody rushing into the stores during a period of 10 days before the holiday is a custom that makes trouble for the public, increases the cost of selling the goods, and creates a most trying period of strain for the store workers.

People should see the advantage in distributing their purchases over a longer period.

THE PATH TOWARD WAR

SOME people feel so indignant at the way the Japanese armies are tramping down the people of China, that they think the United States should take the lead in some definite step designed to aid China. Some of them would have our country permit the shipment of war material to China and cut it off from Japan.

Such a policy would be almost equivalent to starting a war with Japan. Those advocating such a course should consider that Japan is backed by two very powerful nations, Italy and Germany. An attack on any one of these three might mean another World War.

World At A Glance

If the railroads and their workers settle their wage argument without a strike (they have until December to come to an agreement) Donald R. Richberg will be entitled to the major share of credit for it. As the rail unions' legal adviser he framed, practically lonehanded, the law under which mediation proceedings were begun between employers and employees following the companies' announcement of a prospective 15 percent pay cut and the workers' vote in favor of a walk-out to resist it.

It was an admirably-drafted law, as has been proved by its effectiveness heretofore. The Wagner Act, creating the Labor Relations Board, was just as well intended, but it isn't operating as satisfactorily. The newer wage-hour law isn't asserting itself as smoothly as Richberg's legislative concoction did. It may presently get to working perfectly, but initially there is a bit of friction. Richberg's plan slid into action without a particle of it. It remains to be seen how it will stand its current test, between now and December. However, the prospect is pretty good. The Richberg system promises to hold water. Of course the railroad managements wall that they were done a terrible injustice by the mediators' decision against a wage out, and can, if they choose, go ahead with it, precipitating a strike. But they know that public

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN,
PEOPLE IN KEY STATES SORE

WASHINGTON — During the week before elections and for several days hereafter, one of the Merry-Go-Rounders browsed through Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan and Colorado, sounding out sentiment on Roosevelt, the Republicans and the New Deal in general.

Most interesting revelation from this survey is that while a lot of folk in these states are sore as boils against the Roosevelt Administration, most of them tend to exonerate the President himself. They blame everything on the Brain Trust or the Cabinet or the politicians but they still speak of Roosevelt as a man who is trying, who may make mistakes but by and large is doing his best for the country.

Nevertheless there is also a pronounced underground murmur against Roosevelt personally. What is particularly significant about this is that it does not come from the usual die-hards so numerous in Wall Street, who believe that nothing good can come out of Roosevelt.

It comes from such fair-minded persons as school-teachers, farmers, professional people, who approve of a lot of things Roosevelt has done but believe it is time for him to do some house-cleaning and concentrate on efficient administration.

"GET A CABINET"

One thing that particularly antagonizes these independent thinkers is the Cabinet, which they generally regard as a fossilized collection of boll-weevils, so inept that Roosevelt himself has to run the show. This, they say, is obviously impossible when he is at Hyde Park all the time.

Roosevelt's fishing trips and frequent vacations are not resented. But his failure to have strong cabinet members around him is.

"Either he should give up fishing or get a Cabinet," was the way one Colorado beet farmer put it.

Another thing you hear a lot of grouching about is insincerity—the tendency of men around the President, and the President himself, to talk high ideals and then stoop to petty politics.

WPA comes in for a lot of panning, not because folks don't approve of relief but because local administrators have put so many of their non-needy friends on the payrolls.

SUSPICIOUS OF EUROPE

Finally there is considerable suspicion that the President is kowtowing too much to Neville Chamberlain and the British Tories. People are doing more thinking than ever before about foreign affairs and the danger of war, and they fear that Roosevelt, although well-intentioned during the Munich episode, was given the complete double-cross by Europe.

They don't understand why he plays ball with Chamberlain in squeezing out the Spanish Loyalists.

According to present trends, Mr. Roosevelt will have to do some awfully steady pitching with much better support from his infield and outfield if he is to hold the victors. Otherwise, goodbye New Deal.

opinion will be overwhelmingly against them.

As to public opinion? It hasn't been much perturbed. Time was when the threat of a national railroad strike would have scared this country into hysteria. Not now, though; there has been general confidence in that Richberg law.

DON RICHBURG'S RECORD

Don Richberg used to be known as the outstanding labor attorney in this country—principally railroad labor.

When the New Deal came into power he was mentioned prominently as a candidate to fill the next vacancy on the federal supreme bench—as an advanced liberal almost a radical. And he was named as general counsel to the now defunct NRA. From that time forward labor began to growl that he was turning conservative. More recently, since the NRA's finish, labor references have been heard to his "corporation practice."

I don't assert that he has grown any more conservative than ever he was. All I say is that I am acquainted with many a labor leader who remarks: "When Richberg was appointed to NRA we thought we were getting a grand break, since then, look at him!"

Anyway, he cooked up a beautiful railroad mediation law. And when he criticizes the Labor Relations Act. I think he's a high authority speaking.

The fact remains that the railroads, regardless of the mediation board's decision against the 15 percent wage cut, still are in the financial soup.

There's no doubt that they're nearly or entirely bankrupt.

In early days the railroads were rackets. They were over-capitalized. They over-borrowed. They were in ridiculous competition. They didn't pay their bills. Their promoters were buccaners of the first water. But they're dead. For two generations their estates have been settled. There's no getting back at them. Innocent purchasers hold their securities.

NOT YET ECONOMIC

The roads are still wasteful, according to Senator Burton K. Wheeler, who, as chairman of the Senate's Interstate Commerce Committee, has investigated them thoroughly. Let 'em cut waste, not pay, says Wheeler.

As a stop-gap, urge certain financiers, "Let the government lend the roads another billion dollars."

It will have to come out of the government's Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

"I want security," yells Director Jesse Jones of RFC.

"None's available," is the railroads' answer.

Answer that complication.

Glands Enable Body to Work Smoothly
By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

SOME economist has pointed out the enormously complex set of human activities involved in furnishing the morning milk supply to a large city. It is improbable that any commission could plan for having the exact number of bottles of fresh milk at the exactly proper doors, and vary the supply with the daily needs of the family and the seasons. And yet, all this is accomplished as the result of forces which we hardly pause to recognize—the spirit of competitive industry, the need to make money.

In the body there also are constantly at work forces which make the complex machinery work smoothly. As I pointed out last week, all the vegetative work of the body—digestion, respiration, circulation and excretion—is carried out without any conscious effort on our part—in fact, much better than if we gave it thought.

Stimulate Organs

At any given moment there is being squirted into the blood stream a variety of chemical substances which act upon all the different organs and stimulate them to do their work smoothly and evenly.

Many of these chemical substances are formed in the groups of glands scattered over the body, and which make up the system of what is known as the endocrine or ductless glands. They pour their secretions directly into the blood stream, not, as other glands do, through a duct into a cavity.

There are ten of these glands in the body—the pituitary in the skull; the thyroid and the four parathyroids in the neck; the thymus in the chest; the islets of the pancreas; and the two adrenals in the abdomen. If we count the gonads, there are twelve.

Control Growth

Besides influencing the vegetative functions of the body, largely through acting on the autonomic nervous system, they also control growth, the development of maturity and the growth of hair and the contours of the body.

When the functions of these glands were first discovered, and that was only a short time ago, all sorts of predictions were made as to what they would do. The human race was apparently on the verge of being made over.

"Shots of thyroid or pituitary hormones enable a dwarf to fit into a man-sized suit of clothes, a young boy to sing basso profundo" is the statement I find this week in a responsible magazine. Such results are very exceptional. Medical men have been compelled to revise their early enthusiasms about what these glandular extracts will do. In the articles this week I will try to present the most reliable modern view of their actions.

"WE'LL BE singing in the spring-time. We'll be singing in the fall. We'll be singing all the year round—Be-cause Rice con-que-ers all-I-I-I! We'll be marching on the gridiron, Running, fighting, tearing through; Victory is our goal line—All hail the gray and blu-u-u-e!"

They reached a high note on the final "blu-u-u-e" and ended the song in a burst of exuberant shouting. The words may have been exaggerated a bit, but the tune was fast and swingy. "EE-YEA-A-A-A-ho YOW!" exploded the yell leader, and bedlam shook the dance hall.

The orchestra didn't have a chance against the mass vocal competition. The waltz therefore evaporated, while the brasses swelled into blaring accompaniment of the singers. The crowd had just about forgotten dancing, anyway, and had gone in for impromptu fun. Somebody shoved Sara Sue Davis into the center of the circle, and she obligingly sang the second stanza alone, leading the crowd back in on the chorus.

Blue-and-gray balloons that had boiled in air fountains all evening were released now. Green paper streamers speared the air from every direction—green for freshmen. Cellophane bags were distributed, their glistening beauty enhanced not by conventional fetti, but refrigerated rose petals to be used as such. Not only was the great ballroom a melange of color and action, therefore, but the hilarity was further heightened by delightful fresh rose perfume. The freshmen had, indeed, "gone to town" in staging their ball.

Dr. Thornton Holgate had edged out of the lounge in rather a pitiable state. First he had stared at Peaches—had held out a hand as if in supplication. No doubt, too, he did stare owl-eyed at her, as she drunkenly informed the drunk young man who was her companion. She had offered him a drink from the young man's bottle, but Dr. Thornton had only stared—owl-eyed.

When Peaches and her man began a silly simpering at each other, Thornton Holgate could only turn and move away, dazed. This was an experience utterly foreign to him. He knew, of course, that some young people drank and caroused. He had read—but discounted—reports of ribaldry in colleges, but he had never been exposed to any. He did not countenance intoxication, ever. He could have forgiven Peaches if she had slapped him, or spit on him. But to be drunk!

He hastened out onto the main ball floor.

"We'll be singing in the spring-time. We'll be singing in the fall—"

Happiness there was in crescendo, obviously. Had he been in analytical mood he would have discerned American youth en masse at its gayest. He would have known that they, not the lamentable minority given to dissipation, represented the nation's real strength.

But etched on his mind at the moment was the silly, half-leering, simpering face of Peaches Pomeroy, its animation sagged by alcohol, its makeup spoiled by neglect. Dr. Holgate was devastated. He sought to push through the throng toward a door. Unfortunately, Sara Sue Davis spied him.

"THORNY!"

She shrieked above the bedlam. He turned and saw her, and felt hysteria seize him. He knew that Sara Sue, loyal tutor, would not understand his feelings now, but would try to make him one of the gang. It was a laudable endeavor, one that he had earnestly sought, but at this particular moment—

"THORNY! Come and sing! Thorny Holgate! Bring him in, boys—Dr. Holgate has a marvelous baritone!"

"Holgate, Holgate, Holgate Holgate Holgate, we want Holgate!" Some of the frog-voiced freshmen began a chanting, more joining, until the attention of the entire room was centered on him. Sara Sue had come to his side now.

Thorny, come on! she commanded, sweetly reproving, smiling in good fellowship.

Then all at once she saw the m---y, the utter terror in his eyes. "I can't—I CAN'T!" His voice was a rasping, a sob. Tears glistened in his eyes.

Sara Sue, not understanding, nevertheless saw his condition. "Why, Thorny—"

She would have sympathized, offered help, anything. But he ducked then and plowed his way on through. He almost ran through the door, down the beautiful stairway to the ground floor of the hotel, and out into the street, forgetting entirely his coat and hat checked upstairs. He sank into a taxicab as if recoiling from some grave danger.

No greater cruelties have been inflicted on mankind than those unintentionally given. No men have suffered more than the gentle, emotional souls who are by birth keyed to high sensitivity.

Thornton Holgate would have passed at casual glance for a human anywhere. He had excellent health. His prowess as a swimmer had been a source of mild pride to him. He played good tennis on occasions. But the good qualities in Thornton Holgate were not surface ones alone. Inside him was a spiritual grandeur which few persons, not even he, himself, had ever suspected. His mother had known it—she had seen to it that his education was the best possible. One or two of the professors he had encountered as a student had discovered it. But few others had been privileged to know him intimately.

In the solitude of the taxicab he, of course, calmed down. Embarrassment still lingered, but, he reasoned, correctly, he had actually

♣ A 10 8 2

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

Four Hearts was the final contract by North and South on this deal, South having opened with 1-Heart, North jumping to 3-Hearts and South bidding 4-Hearts.

The spade K was led by West and taken with dummy's A. Next came the lead of the heart 2 and the 9 lost to West's 10. After cashing the spade Q, West switched to the diamond 2. This play indicated to declarer that the Q was held by East, so the 5 was played from dummy and the A from the South hand. Next came leads of the club K, club A and a club ruff in dummy. The heart 5 was played to the A and followed by a club ruff in the North and a spade ruff in the South. Then East was put in the lead with the heart Q. East had nothing to return but a diamond.

As declarer could observe from the start, it was possible that he had lost two trumps, one spade and one diamond, but the end play was a sure thing no matter who held the queen.

ROMANCE IN NC

BY OREN ARNOLD

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:

Sara Sue Davis, attractive young widow, establishes herself in a cozy cottage near the campus of Rice Institute, in Texas, hangs out a sign which reads "COUNSEL IN ROMANCE", and inaugurates a novel plan to help guide 100 student "members" in their social affairs for a small fee. Bob Towne, a campus football hero, much attracted by Sara Sue, is the first to enroll, and his enrages Peaches Pomeroy, who had regarded herself as "Bob's girl" the previous year. An unprepossessing freshman, Worthington Gurley, enrolls and also displays an interest in the pretty young widow. Then Dr. Thornton Holgate, new member of the faculty, brings the Cottage Plan to a climax when he begs Sara Sue to help him and confides his love for the Pomeroy girl. Finally, T. J. Sanders, a sports goods salesman who hops into town and falls in love with Sara Sue at first sight. After Sara has given Dr. Holgate several lessons in "how to become more human," he becomes frantic at the freshman ball when he comes upon Peaches badly intoxicated.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 20

"WE'LL BE singing in the spring-time,

We'll be singing in the fall,
We'll be singing all the year round
Be-cause Rice con-que-ers all-I-I-I!
We'll be marching on the gridiron,
Running, fighting, tearing through;
Victory is our goal line—
All hail the gray and blu-u-u-ue!"

They reached a high note on the final "blu-u-u-ue" and ended the song in a burst of exuberant shouting. The words may have been exaggerated a bit, but the words were fast and swinging. "EE-YEA-A-A-A-ho YOW!" exploded the yell leader, and bedlam shook the dance hall.

The orchestra didn't have a chance against the mass vocal competition. The waltz therefore evaporated, while the brasses swelled into blaring accompaniment of the singers. The crowd had just about forgotten dancing, anyway, and had gone in for impromptu fun. Somebody shoved Sara Sue Davis into the center of the circle, and she obligingly sang the second stanza alone, leading the crowd back in on the chorus.

Blue-and-gray balloons that had boiled in air fountains all evening were released now. Green paper streamers speared the air from every direction—green for freshmen, yellow for sophomores, blue for juniors, and red for seniors. Cellophane bags were distributed, their glistening beauty enhanced not by conventional confetti, but refrigerated rose petals to be used as such. Not only was the great ballroom a melange of color and action, therefore, but the hilarity was further heightened by delightful fresh rose perfume. The freshmen had, indeed, "gone to town" in staging their ball.

Dr. Thornton Holgate had edged out of the lounge in rather a pitiable state. First he had stared at Peaches—had held out a hand as if in supplication. No doubt, too, he had stared owl-eyed at her, as she drunkenly informed the drunk young man who was her companion. She had offered him a drink from the young man's bottle, but Thornton had only stared—owl-eyed.

When Peaches and her man began a silly simpering at each other, Thornton Holgate could only turn and move away, dazed. This was an experience utterly foreign to him. He knew, of course, that some young people drank and caroused. He had read, but discounted—reports of rivalry in colleges, but he had never been exposed to any. He did not countenance intoxication, ever. He could have forgiven Peaches if she had slapped him, or spit on him. But to be drunk—

He hastened out onto the main ball floor.

"We'll be singing in the spring-time,
We'll be singing in the fall—"

Happiness there was in crescendo, obviously. Had he been in analytical mood he would have discerned American youth in mass at its gayest. He would have known that they, not the lamentable minority given to dissipation, represented the nation's real strength.

But etched on his mind at the moment was the silly, half-leering, simpering face of Peaches Pomeroy, its animation sagged by alcohol, its makeup spoiled by neglect. Dr. Holgate was devastated. He sought to push through the throng toward a door. Unfortunately, Sara Sue Davis spied him.

"THORNY!"

He turned and saw her, and felt hysteria seize him. He knew that Sara Sue, loyal tutor, would not understand his feelings now, but would try to make him one of the gang. It was a laudable endeavor, one that he had earnestly sought, but at this particular moment—

"THORNY! Come and sing! Thorny Holgate! Bring him in, boys—Dr. Holgate has a marvelous baritone!"

"Holgate, Holgate, Holgate Holgate Holgate, we want Holgate!" Some of the frog-voiced freshmen began a chanting, more joining, until the attention of the entire room was centered on him. Sara Sue had come to his side now.

Thorny, come on!" she commanded, sweetly reproving, smiling in good fellowship.

Then all at once she saw the m...y, the utter terror in his eyes. "I can't—I CAN'T!" His voice was a rasping, a sob. Tears glistened in his eyes.

Sara Sue, not understanding, nevertheless saw his condition. "Why, Thorny—"

She would have sympathized, offered help, anything. But he ducked then and plowed his way on through. He almost ran through the door, down the beautiful stairway to the ground floor of the hotel, and out into the street, forgetting entirely his coat and hat checked upstairs. He sank into a taxicab as if recoiling from some grave danger.

No greater cruelties had been inflicted on mankind than those unintentionally given. No men have suffered more than the gentle, emotional souls who are by birth keyed to high sensitivity.

Thornton Holgate would have passed at casual glance for a human anywhere. He had excellent health. His prowess as a swimmer had been a source of mild pride to him. He played good tennis on occasions. But the good qualities in Thornton Holgate were not surface ones alone. Inside him was a spiritual grandeur which few persons, not even he, himself, had ever suspected. His mother had known it—she had seen to it that his education was the best possible. One of two of the professors he had encountered as a student had discovered it. But few others had been privileged to know him intimately.

In the solitude of the taxicab he, of course, calmed down. Embarrassment still lingered; but, he reasoned, correctly, he had actually

GREEN IS an added starter in the color race but it is doing all right. Smart women on both sides of the Atlantic are selecting green frocks for day, sports or evening wear. The model sketched above was seen at the Palm Beach Casino at Cannes on the French Riviera where some of the world's most fashionable women congregated. It is of dark green moire, a most popular fabric with a band of black velvet covering the bust. The deep, round décolletage is outlined by wired black velvet leaves that frame the shoulders. The fitted mid-section dips down in back to a lower waistline and the skirt is gathered into it center back. The front gives the impression of being Empire.

HOW quickly the years pass—and how happily for a business: when it occupies all of its time serving the wants and needs of the people. So many of our customers during our first year in business, 30 birthdays ago, are still our friends. As their families have grown and trends changed, so has our business grown, and our ideas of service and quality workmanship changed with the times. Barnhill's always was, and always will be, a dry cleaning business of dependability and friendliness... a business that keeps abreast of the times, ever changing and improving our equipment to keep in step with progress.

Dr. Kirk's brother, Dr. Robert Chester Kirk, attended him as best man and the ushers were Mr. Norman Welles Spencer of Hartford, Conn.; Mr. Landon Carter Lodge of St. Louis, Mo.; Mr. Horace Dedreux Bregenz of Cleveland; Mr. Edward H. Waltz of Lancaster, Pa.; Mr. James Forestal Kurtz and Mr. William Southwick Hoopes of Columbus.

Today's Fashion

GREEN IS an added starter in the color race but it is doing all right. Smart women on both sides of the Atlantic are selecting green frocks for day, sports or evening wear. The model sketched above was seen at the Palm Beach Casino at Cannes on the French Riviera where some of the world's most fashionable women congregate. It is of dark green moire, a most popular fabric with a band of black velvet covering the bust. The deep, round décolletage is outlined by wired black velvet leaves that frame the shoulders. The fitted mid-section dips down in back to a lower waistline and the skirt is gathered into it center back. The front gives the impression of being Empire.

A reception for the members of the wedding party and guests was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lipscomb Cox, 35 Eastmoor boulevard. For traveling, when Dr. Kirk and his bride left late in the evening, she wore a black costume suit trimmed in Persian lamb and velvet.

The former Miss Cox is a graduate of Ohio State university where she was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority.

Dr. Kirk, who attended Phillips Exeter and is a graduate of Ohio State university college of medicine and Yale university, is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Chester Clyde Kirk of Orient.

Theobald-Kelly

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Kelly of Wayne township announce the marriage of their daughter, Fern, to Mr. Harold Theobald, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Theobald of Leesburg Pike, near Washington C. H. The ceremony was performed in Bedford, Ky., Sunday, Aug. 21, Judge J. L. Wright officiating.

Mr. Vaughn Yoho of Washington C. H. and Mrs. Mary Vaughn Matter of Mt. Vernon, Ind. were the only attendants.

The former Miss Kelly, who is a graduate of Wayne township high school in the class of 1934, is employed at the Washington C. H. store of the A. & P. Tea company.

Mr. Theobald, a graduate of Leesburgh high school in 1935, is engaged in farming in that community.

—: Barnhill's :—
30th Anniversary

HOW quickly the years pass—and how happily for a business: when it occupies all of its time serving the wants and needs of the people. So many of our customers during our first year in business, 30 birthdays ago, are still our friends. As their families have grown and trends changed, so has our business grown, and our ideas of service and quality workmanship changed with the times. Barnhill's always was, and always will be, a dry cleaning business of dependability and friendliness... a business that keeps abreast of the times, ever changing and improving our equipment to keep in step with progress.

We look ahead now, to continued relations with our thousands of friends and customers, to continued eagerness to serve you well—to see that every time you do business with us that it will be a pleasant experience.

This anniversary, our 30th, marks an occasion for you to celebrate with us. So, for one week only, November 14 to 19, inclusive, we offer the following dry cleaning special:—

IRISH IN NO. 1 POSITION AFTER GOPHER UPSET

Notre Dame Halts Power Attack And Runs Up Three Scores

NEW YORK, Nov. 14—(UP)—Football moves into its final fortnight today with Dixie and the Midwest boasting five teams that dominate the 1938 season.

The five leaders—Notre Dame, Texas Christian, Duke, Oklahoma and Tennessee—are undefeated and untied, but there is many a slip between mid-November and the Rose Bowl and none of them is going to have a picnic this weekend.

Notre Dame goes against a rugged, tough Northwestern team; Texas Christian plays Rice; Duke takes on North Carolina state in one of those neighborhood brawls that so often produce upsets; Oklahoma meets Iowa State, tied but not defeated, and Tennessee has the easiest time of any of them against Kentucky.

Taking into account the stiffness of the schedules and what happened last Saturday, all teams will have to make way today for the Irish of Notre Dame. Elmer Layden has brought a great team to its peak here in mid-November and for one brief week at least he is king of the gridiron.

Leaving out great teams that have been defeated or tied, the ranking of the big five is as follows: 1. Notre Dame, 2. Texas Christian, 3. Tennessee, 4. Duke 5. Oklahoma.

Notre Dame moves to the head of the list not because any of the others faltered or even were hard pressed, but because the Irish proved on Saturday that they could check a power team and go on to victory. That 19 to 0 victory over Minnesota saw Notre Dame at its best when its best was needed. Layden has sent his team to the wars seven times this year and you can search in vain for a soft spot on this schedule—Kansas, Georgia Tech, Illinois, Carnegie Tech, Army, Navy and Minnesota.

No one knows how good Texas Christian really is, because nobody has been able to extend that great team since Arkansas lost an early season game by one touchdown. Since then T. C. U. has scored than 20 points in each of its games and has never yielded more than one touchdown.

Duke's Defense Best

All defensive laurels go to Duke which has not yielded a point all season. There is one of the great lines of the nation and, now that injured backfield men are back, a powerful offensive team as well. Tennessee got over the hill Saturday by defeating Vanderbilt, 14 to 0, and with Kentucky and Mississippi in its way, it's hard to see how it can be kept out of one of the bowl games.

Oklahoma, starting a stiff schedule with Rice, seems to get better every week. Saturday's 21 to 0 victory over an up and coming Missouri team proved that it could take care of itself in any league.

The chief casualties as another Saturday narrowed the undefeated list were Dartmouth, Iowa State and Santa Clara. Dartmouth ran into a big Cornell team, with a brick wall line, and it was the old story of star backs being unable to go any place unless somebody was opening holes. Cornell upset the Big Green, 14-7.

Iowa State came out better, getting a 13 to 12 tie with Kansas State, but dropped out of the select circle. Santa Clara, which has been squeaking out victories for the last two weeks, caught a red hot St. Mary's team yesterday and lost, 7 to 0. That game confirmed the suspicion of West Coast observers that Slip Madigan has finally whipped a green team into shape and is likely to pop up next year with one of the best in the country.

BUCKEYES HAVE SLIGHT CHANCE TO GAIN TITLE

CHICAGO, Nov. 14—(UP)—Stripped of its last bit of football prestige, the Big 10 will decide its 1938 champion this week-end from a confusing jam of contenders including every team in the first division.

There isn't a great team left in

Athletic Club Stages Wrestling Match Series

The Circleville Athletic Club, with Fred Nolan of Columbus as promoter, is planning a series of Monday night wrestling matches in the club gymnasium, the first to be conducted next week, Nov. 21. The shows will consist entirely of wrestling. Each show will include three matches, the main event being a two out of three fall match between stars known through Ohio and other midwest states.

Some of the nationally known grapplers to be featured are John Pesek, Joe Banaski, Midget Fischer, Ray Carpenter, George McCloud, Stacy Hall, Silent Rattan, George Ligorski, Bobby Black, The Great Mephisto, Frank Sexton, Ray Schwarz and Gordon Arquette.

At the present time, Nolan is busy lining up a first class card for his first show. Kimon Kudo, one of the leading 10 light heavyweights in the wrestling business, has been signed to appear next week. Nolan is still seeking a foe for Kudo from among such stars as Frankie Talaber, Billy Weidner, Ray Schwarz and The Great Mephisto. Kudo is known as one of the finest judo jitsu matmen in the business.

About This And That In Many Sports

All Eyes Turn to Wolverine Contest

It's another Monday and all eyes point toward the Ohio State and Michigan football game next week-end with varied expressions being heard concerning the contest's outcome : : : The Buckeyes regained some of their lost prestige by their easy victory over Illinois and at the same time made their followers believe that they might have a chance against the fast-improving Wolverines : : : Both teams defeated Chicago by nearly the same score and both tied Northwestern in scoreless draws : : : Ohio's chances depend a lot on the kind of quarterbacking put out : : : It'll be a big week for the followers of the Wolverine, including Howard Orr, Harry Heffner, Max Seyfert, Ray Davis, Charles Gilmore and some others : : : Some of the Michigan lads will be guests in Circleville after the game, Horace Gilmore, Michigan student, have several guests over the week-end including Fullback Hook * * *

The Emery club has been a splendid starting ground for a lot of good basketball players in Circleville in the last couple of years and again this year indications point to a lot of success : : : Practices have started and many boys are getting good work-outs : : : Last week a couple of jerseys were taken and managers of the Emery club team believe they know where they went : : : Boys who "borrowed" them will be given a chance to return them * * *

High school basketball practice will begin the middle of this week, as soon as all football equipment is turned in * * * Coaches Roy Black and Tom Armstrong will probably build around Warren Bumgarner, Paul Walters, Harold Smith, Bill Heffner, Whitey Davis, Bill Stebelton and a few other : : : The team should be a good one * * * the conference, but if Minnesota, Wisconsin or Ohio State can achieve greatness for just 60 minutes Saturday one of the three yet may carry away an undisputed championship.

Otherwise there are plenty of possibilities:

1. Winner of the Minnesota-Wisconsin game at Madison will gain at least a share of the championship.

2. Ohio State can share it by defeating Michigan at Columbus or win it outright if Minnesota and Wisconsin tie.

3. In case of a tie at Wisconsin and a defeat of Ohio State, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Purdue and Michigan can share the championship.

Ohio State, despite its tie with Northwestern and defeat by Purdue, still maintains an excellent chance of coming through because of its six game schedule. A 32 to 14 triumph over Illinois indicated that the Buckeyes may have found their offensive thunder and must be regarded as a distinct menace to Michigan.

TONY EXPECTED TO WIN EASILY IN BOUT TONIGHT

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 14—

(UP)—Two-ton Tony Galento, boisterous barkeeper from Orange, N. J., returns to the ring tonight for the first time since a pneumonia attack last Summer when he faced Harry Thomas, Eagle Bend, Minn., heavyweight, in a scheduled 12-round bout at Convention hall.

Galento, colorful and aggressive, will rule a 2 to 1 favorite before entering the ring and will weigh-in at about 235 pounds. Thomas, a former college football star, blacksmith, minor league baseball player and farmer, will scale about 200.

The man who walks like a barrel is ranked as No. 1 heavyweight challenger by the National Boxing association and tonight's fight will decide whether Galento lost his ability to take it when he was given a "nine count" by pneumonia—or "ammonia" as he describes it.

"Two-ton", knockout conqueror of Nathan Mann, Leroy Haynes, Al Ettore, Lorenzo Pack and Charley Massera, in his last five bouts, has posted $10,000 with the N. B. A. for a title bout with Champion Joe Louis this Summer. He must win from "Tough Thomas" tonight to retain his standing.

SCIOTO TOWNSHIP AND DUVALL 4-H CLUBS WIN ACHIEVEMENT HONORS

STATE LEADER GIVES BANNERS TO VICTORIOUS

Washington Stitches In Second Place With Up And Comin' Group

438 COUNTIANS ACTIVE

100 Percent Units Listed For Recognition At Annual Dinner

Scioto township's Hardy Workers clothing club and Duvall's Go Getters livestock club won achievement banners Saturday night for being the most outstanding 4-H clubs in the county this year.

Mrs. C. V. Neal is leader and Mrs. Myrl Hinton, assistant leader, of the winning girls club. It has 20 members. Hewitt Cronley is leader of the Duvall club comprised of 15 members. The Duvall club won the banner in 1937.

Second place winners were the Washington township Jolly Stitches club, led by Mrs. M. R. Bowman and Mrs. Loring Leist, and the Scioto township Up and Comin' livestock club, with C. V. Neal as leader. The Washington township club was winner in 1937.

Awarding of the county banner is made on the basis of the size of the club, attendance at meetings, percentage of members who complete their projects, grades and participation in activities.

Banners were presented by Chester Lang, assistant state 4-H club leader, at a banquet of club leaders held in the New American hotel. All leaders were presented special pencils for their work. About 30 attended the meeting.

Clubs having 100 percent completion in their work were: food, Ashville Caterers led by Mrs. Curtis Cromley, Jackson Baker Maids led by Miss Josephine Wolf, Williamsport Homemakers led by Mrs. Karl Huls and Wayne Willing Workers led by Miss Sara May; clothing, Ashville club led by Mrs. Stanley Beckett, Scioto Hardy Workers led by Mrs. C. V. Neal and Mrs. Myrl Hinton, Washington township, led Mrs. M. M. Bowman and Mrs. Loring Leist, and New Holland led by Mrs. Jean French; campfire cookery, Atlanta club led by Mrs. John Farmer, and boys clubs, Duvall Go Getters led by Hewitt Cronley, Williamsport boys led by H. H. Carter and Clark Smith, and Walnut boys led by Ben Nosthine.

Pickaway county has 438 young folk enrolled in club work this year, two less than last year.

(Continued from Page One) down to the lower brackets, but would be worked out with particular severity on the wealthy and prominent Jews, many of whom were under arrest as a result of seizure of many thousands of Jews in the last week. Many of the wealthy Jews have large "blocked" accounts controlled by the government.

Danzig Trouble Scene Spasmodic outbreaks continued. There were demonstrations in Danzig where nearly all Jewish store windows had been shattered and the interiors of synagogues damaged. All Jewish shops in Danzig were closed.

At a public meeting in Danzig, Albert Forster, Nazi district leader, announced that the Jewish question in Danzig soon would be regulated by law. The laws, it was believed, would be analogous to the laws of the Reich.

In Munich all foodshops, cafes, restaurants, banks and pharmacies displayed signs which said "No Jews Admitted." The same signs were beginning to appear on Berlin restaurants.

As a result Jews were able to buy food and other essentials only after nightfall and then at the backdoors of friendly shop keepers.

The possibility that Jews would be forced to wear a special insignia was voiced by the Vienna weekly Der Samstag which said in a front page editorial.

"Where is the yellow spot? Not only on places of business, but on Jews themselves. These must be labeled."

10 PERSONS DIE IN OHIO TRAFFIC

Harry Steinmetz, 74, a Wyandot county farmer, was killed when he fell beneath the wheels of a wagon loaded with corn which was being pulled by a tractor.

Mrs. Ruth Blanton, 33, Cincinnati, was killed in an automobile-truck collision.

Joseph Hahn, 58, was killed when struck by two automobile at Canton.

Victims of Cleveland accidents were John S. Trgo, 24; Mrs. Lillian James, 37, and John Mahon, 71.

DONALD WERTMAN, BORN JULY 24, DIES AT HOME

Donald Eugene Wertman, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Wertman, died Sunday at 5:30 a. m. at the home in Washington township. The child had been ill since birth last July 24.

Surviving are the parents, Chester and Ruth Morris Wertman, and the following brothers and sisters, John, Chester, Darrell Lee, Joan and Beverly Lou.

The funeral will be Tuesday at 2 p. m. at the home, the Rev. T. C. Harper officiating with burial in Maple Hill cemetery, Stoutsville, by M. S. Rinehart.

$25,729 ACTION SETTLED BEFORE HEARING STARTS

Common Pleas court jurors were sent home Monday after announcement was made that the $25,729.50 suit of Anna Merle Roof, Lockbourne Route 1, against Robert Funk, S. Court street, and Robert Shadley, E. High street, had been settled and dismissed. Terms of the settlement were not announced. The case was based on an auto mishap.

No jury cases are scheduled the remainder of this week. Judge Meeker Terwilliger said arrangements may be made for the assignment of a case.

NEW DIRECTOR TAKES CHARGE OF OHIO ROADS

(Continued from Page One) sion 6; H. C. Miller, division 7; Walter E. Millard, Middletown, division 8; Joseph N. Doyle, Chillicothe, division 9; Harvey E. Calvin, Marietta, division 10 and Lewis L. Drasler, Cleveland, division 12.

Harry Sharp, New Philadelphia, division 11, was dismissed several days ago and the governor said the action was taken "for good and sufficient reason." The governor directly charged that 10 of his engineers signed the affidavits supporting Sawyer's accusation.

It was understood that he had contemplated dismissal of the men for sometime but encountered opposition from Jaster.

Only Two Remain

The blanket changes in important departmental positions left engineers in charge of only two of the 12 divisions. Archie Ranney, Ravenna, division 4, retained his post and H. A. Keller, formerly assistant to Ault in division 3 is now in charge of that section.

Ault who will have only a few weeks to serve in the $6,500 a year directorship until the new Bricker administration takes over, said 10 new division engineers would be selected within a few days. The road building program inaugurated several months ago will be carried forward without interruption, he said.

The position as chief of the maintenance bureau in the department will be filled by Xenophon G. Hassenplug, of Sandusky.

Ault is 50 years old and has been with the highway department since 1925 except for a short period when he was engaged in private business in Norwalk. He is a native of Wadsworth, Medina county.

LEASURE INFANT DEAD; FUNERAL TO BE TUESDAY

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 10 a. m. in the M. S. Rinehart funeral home, the Rev. T. C. Harper officiating, for Sherman Edward Leasure, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Leasure, E. Mound street. The child died in Children's hospital, Columbus, at 9:45 p. m. Sunday.

The little boy was born last Oct. 29.

Surviving besides the parents, Ernest and Doris Overly Leasure, are a brother, Carl Gene, and a sister, Fay Ann.

Burial will be in Forest cemetery.

Garden Death Mystery Horrifies Iowa Village

to say whether it had been the cause of death. He said the fracture might have been caused either accidentally during burial or by decomposition.

Scholer ordered the garden searched completely last night after Mrs. Knox, unaware that the body had been found, had told him:

"When you start digging, be sure that you get mother's body."

He said it was for the body of the mysterious elderly woman whom neighbors had seen at the Knox home, that he and his deputies were searching.

The neighbors told him they had seen the woman—similar in age and appearance to Mrs. Trow—about the Knox household during the last few months. They said they had mentioned to Mrs. Knox that the woman didn't look like her mother.

"Well you know how elderly people are," Mrs. Knox answered.

"They change a great deal some times."

Scholer said neighbors had told him they had seen Mrs. Knox "digging and putting around" in the garden during the early morning hours and that they had become suspicious because they had not seen Mrs. Trow for several days.

Scholer said he is concerned also about the whereabouts of Mrs. Knox's husband, a former Le Mars mail carrier, who has been missing since Mrs. Trow died.

"We've had a report," Scholer said, "that he's in some small inland city in Washington and we've asked the state police there to look for him."

Mrs. Trow's vital organs were sent to the University of Iowa for examination. Scholer said that if the organs show no trace of poison, he will charge Mrs. Knox only with having buried her mother illegally.

Mrs. Trow's son, Len Trow, of Huron, S. D., identified her body.

He arranged for its removal to a cemetery after an autopsy and was the only relative present as it was buried beside that of her husband. Mrs. Knox, during the prohibition era, was a member of the women's Christian Temperance union. She emulated Carrie Nation, famed Kansas crusader, and led many raids against bootlegging establishments.

Served For Forgery Scholer said she was convicted 10 years ago on forgery charges in connection with settlement of the estate of T. M. Zink, Le Mars attorney who left $50,000 estate for establishment of a "womanless" library. She was given a five-year reformatory sentence and was paroled after she had served a year.

The late President Woodrow Wilson once was a football coach.

Danzig Trouble Scene
Spasmodic outbreaks continued. There were demonstrations in Danzig where nearly all Jewish store windows had been shattered and the interiors of synagogues damaged. All Jewish shops in Danzig were closed.

At a public meeting in Danzig, Albert Forster, Nazi district leader, announced that the Jewish question in Danzig soon would be regulated by law. The laws, it was believed, would be analogous to the laws of the Reich.

In Munich all foodshops, cafes, restaurants, banks and pharmacies displayed signs which said "No Jews Admitted." The same signs were beginning to appear on Berlin restaurants.

As a result Jews were able to buy food and other essentials only after nightfall and then at the backdoors of friendly shop keepers.

The possibility that Jews would be forced to wear a special insignia was voiced by the Vienna weekly Der Samstag which said in a front page editorial.

"Where is the yellow spot? Not only on places of business, but on Jews themselves. These must be labeled."

sion 6; H. C. Miller, division 7; Walter E. Millard, Middletown, division 8; Joseph N. Doyle, Chillicothe, division 9; Harvey E. Calvin, Marietta, division 10 and Lewis L. Drasler, Cleveland, division 12.

Harry Sharp, New Philadelphia, division 11, was dismissed several days ago and the governor said the action was taken "for good and sufficient reason."

The governor directly charged that 10 of his engineers signed the affidavits supporting Sawyer's accusation.

It was understood that he had contemplated dismissal of the men for sometime but encountered opposition from Jaster.

Only Two Remain
The blanket changes in important departmental positions left engineers in charge of only two of the 12 divisions. Archie Ranney, Ravenna, division 4, retained his post and H. A. Keller, formerly assistant to Ault in division 3 is now in charge of that section.

Ault who will have only a few weeks to serve in the $6,500 a year directorship until the new Bricker administration takes over, said 10 new division engineers would be selected within a few days. The road building program inaugurated several months ago will be carried forward without interruption, he said.

The position as chief of the maintenance bureau in the department will be filled by Xenophon G. Hassenplug, of Sandusky.

Ault is 50 years old and has been with the highway department since 1925 except for a short period when he was engaged in private business in Norwalk. He is a native of Wadsworth, Medina county.

Burial will be in Forest cemetery.

$25,729 ACTION SETTLED BEFORE HEARING STARTS

Common Pleas court jurors were sent home Monday after announcement was made that the $25,729.50 suit of Anna Marie Roof, Lockbourne Route 1, against Robert Funk, S. Court street, and Robert Shadley, E. High street, had been settled and dismissed. Terms of the settlement were not announced. The case was based on an auto mishap.

No jury cases are scheduled the remainder of this week. Judge Meeker Terwilliger said arrangements may be made for the assignment of a case.

Garden Death Mystery Horrifies Iowa Village

to say whether it had been the cause of death. He said the fracture might have been caused either accidentally during burial or by decomposition.

Scholer ordered the garden searched completely last night after Mrs. Knox, unaware that the body had been found, had told him:

"When you start digging, be sure that you get mother's body."

He said it was for the body of the mysterious elderly woman whom neighbors had seen at the Knox home, that he and his deputies were searching.

The neighbors told him they had seen the woman—similar in age and appearance to Mrs. Trow—about the Knox household during the last few months. They said they had mentioned to Mrs. Knox that the woman didn't look like her mother.

"Well you know how elderly people are," Mrs. Knox answered.

"They change a great deal some times."

Scholer said neighbors had told him they had seen Mrs. Knox "digging and puttering around" in the garden during the early morning hours and that they had become suspicious because they had not seen Mrs. Trow for several days.

Scholer said he is concerned also about the whereabouts of Mrs. Knox's husband, a former Le Mars mail carrier, who has been missing since Mrs. Trow died.

"We've had a report," Scholer said, "that he's in some small inland city in Washington and we've asked the state police there to look for him."

Mrs. Trow's vital organs were sent to the University of Iowa for examination. Scholer said that if the organs show no trace of poison, he will charge Mrs. Knox only with having buried her mother illegally.

Mrs. Trow's son, Len Trow, of Huron, S. D., identified her body.

He arranged for its removal to a cemetery after an autopsy and it was the only relative present as it was buried beside that of her husband.

Mrs. Knox, during the prohibition era, was a member of the women's Christian Temperance union. She emulated Carrie Nation, famed Kansas crusader, and led many raids against bootlegging establishments.

Served For Forgery
Scholer said she was convicted 10 years ago on forgery charges in connection with settlement of the estate of T. M. Zink, Le Mars attorney who left $50,000 estate for establishment of a "womanless" library. She was given a five-year reformatory sentence and was paroled after she had served a year.

The late President Woodrow Wilson once was a football coach.
